Treatment & Approach

Only two people from Brize Norton are known to have fallen in the Second World War unlike the numbers in the First World War (see my book on Brize Norton and WW1). So the focus is on those who served during the Second World War. To understand who might have served we need to paint a picture of life in Brize Norton during the war years (1939 to 1945) and to look for any records of any villagers. Many of these villagers will have had "reserved" occupations including work on the land. There was also role of the RAF base (RAF Brize Norton) adjacent to the village.

Sources

It follows that the sources used are of different provenance and completeness. For example, the Commonwealth War Graves material is accurate and can be relied up. The Census information relates to a particular time and place, ten years apart it relies on the thoroughness of the census taker and the accuracy of data given. For example, there are misspellings and inaccuracies because of oral questioning and, perhaps most disappointing is that nearly all addresses were recorded as “cottage”, this makes identifying particular properties in Brize difficult, if not impossible. However we are lucky in that a national register was created on 20th September 1939 and can be used to identify residents at that time.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

The military records are of very variable quality, some badly damaged and illegible. We are aware that many records were lost as a result of enemy action in World War 2. Most were written from oral examination so that misspelt names frequently occur - a good example are the various spellings Brize Norton or indeed the absence of this vital link. Surnames are also misspelt and don't always tie up with the census data. It is partly for this reason that the sources have deliberately been given separate chapters. We acknowledge there can be inconsistencies across the chapters.

To preserve the individual integrity of the actual data extracted into this book and the various tables, each data element has been taken as given in the relevant source. This may be seen a purist approach but I believe is justified - we cannot re-write the records and cannot take the view that one source is right and another wrong, although one might regard from the above discussion that one source is unreliable.

Another valuable source of information is the Register of Admissions for Brize Norton school. This helps identify children who lived in the village, giving their dates of birth. Many of these children do not appear in the 1939 Register mentioned above.

Yet another source of data is a list of residents from about 1928.

A corollary of the way the book is written is there is some duplication and repetition but hopefully this will be tolerated.

Abbreviations

In most cases the abbreviations have been spelt out. However there are occasions where Battalion, Company, etc have been abbreviated to Btn, Co, etc,

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Access to data sources

I have relied at this stage on online sources with few exceptions. It is possible that hard copy records from military and other archives in regimental museums, local and county libraries, and national archives and museums could furnish more information but this clearly would necessitate time and travel to visit these resources or the cost of employing researchers.

Chapter 1 - A rural community

Brize Norton is a small rural community in the Cotswolds situated 6 miles to the west of Witney and 3 miles north of Bampton. The village is mentioned in the Domesday Book. The history of the village is given in a number of sources, notably the Victorian History Society publication and Brize Norton Parish Council's publication - "Brize Norton through the Ages" compiled by the author.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

In 1911 the population for Brize Norton and Lew was 627 (553 in Brize Norton itself). The population in 1939 is hard to determine because of the 100 year rule (explained in Chapter 4). An analysis of the 1939 register and the 1911 census shows the occupations of the villagers were nearly all related to the land.

The table below shows the breakdown (see overleaf)

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

It should be noted that the numbers of scholars and underage children are understated because some records are "closed" in the 1939 register (see Chapter 4 for an explanation).

Comparing the figures for 1911 and 1939 it is clear that much of the community is related to agriculture but with more mechanisation. A number of individuals are members of the RAF at Brize Norton Air Base or employed there. A few are clearly employed in Witney and further afield. A breakdown is given below.

Agricultural related	RAF related	Other in work	Remainder
60	25	85	33
30%	12%	42%	16%

It is always interesting to look at the numbers of residents listed in the 1939 register with the same surname. The table below lists those in 1939 with a comparison to that in 1911. Only those with more than one household are given.

Please see the full breakdown from the 1939 register in Appendix 3

It is also illuminating to look at the age structure from the 1939 register:

A number of young adults were excluded from the 1939 Register as explained above so the totals in the lower age groups were higher than given.

Chapter 2 - The Village School

I have been lucky enough to loan the school register for Brize Norton School since its inception. This is an invaluable source of information about the school and the village community. My thanks to Mrs Anna Fairhurst, The headteacher for the loan of this precious piece of village/school history.

I have concentrated on an analysis of the register for the boys who might have fought in the Second World War and who attended the village school. A complete analysis of the document would provide a good insight of the school population over the ages, but this would necessarily be in another publication following a good deal of work.

The admissions register for Brize Norton School provides the following information for the years with which we are concerned: The admission number, the date of admission (and re-admission), the scholar's name, the address of the parents or guardian, the name of the parent or guardian, the scholar's date of birth, the previous school if any, the date last attended the school and the reason for leaving.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

From the admissions register we can identify the boys who might have fought in WW2. Appendix 1 is an extract of the schools admissions register solely for those within the ambit of our research for this book.

The admission register combined with the 1939 Register and the 1928 list of residents will aid the identification of others who may have served or fought in WW2. This is the subject of other chapters.

In the table below the colour codes are as follows:

Green = parents from the school register
(1913 - 1931)

Dk Blue = children from the school register
(1913 - 1931)

Brown = people from the 1928 listing

Red = equivalent record from the 1939 register with current occupation

This colour coding is incomplete. The red number in square brackets relate to 1939 Register and "house numbering" (see Chapter 4)

It follows that where there is no entry for that person in the 1939 register the person had left the village by 1939.

The forgoing tables were used to identify possible candidates whilst researching for those who might have served during WW2 as explained in later chapters.

Chapter 3 - 1928 list of residents

Another source of information is a list of Brize Norton residents compiled around 1928. This is useful to show movement of people between 1911 and 1939. The table below is an alphabetical list by surname. The original listing by street is given in Appendix 2.

Please note that children's names and any lodgers are not included in the list.

The reference or sequence numbers assigned by me are a form of house numbering system best seen in Appendix 2 which lists the houses in order as "you" walk through the village from the South.

Chapter 4 - 1939 Register

At the outbreak of World War II, the government urgently needed to know everything it could about the civil population of England and Wales. This information would be key in the issuing of identity cards and ration books as well as organising conscription and, after the war, and for use in the National Health Service.

To gather this information, they took a National Register. On September 29th, 1939, the personal details – including names, dates of birth, occupations, marital statuses - of 41 million individuals were recorded.

The 1939 Register is one of the most important documents of modern British history. It captures a world on the eve of war, and is a great resource for anyone wanting to find out about their family at the start of World War II.

In addition, owing to the fact that the War destroyed the 1931 census and prevented the 1941 census ever being taken, the 1939 Register is the only surviving record of the population of England and Wales between 1921 and 1951. The 1921

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Census will not be available for a number of years, so the 1939 Register provides a unique opportunity to expand genealogical research and is a great resource for family, social and local historians.

65,000 enumerators issued households with registration forms to be completed on September 29th 1939.

The following week, enumerators visited each household to check and collect the forms and to issue the identity cards to anyone who had been present in that house or institution on the 29th September 1939.

The 1939 Register contains names, dates of birth, addresses and occupations of more than 40 million people in 1.2 million images.

This record set only contains records of the civilian population for England and Wales, not the whole of the United Kingdom. Neither records for the Isle of Man nor the Channel Islands are included.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

The 1939 Register was designed to capture the whereabouts of the civilian population on a specific date. Members of the armed services were not included in the register. The Register was not meant to record members of the armed forces and the records do not feature:

British Army barracks

Royal Navy stations

Royal Air Force stations

Members of the armed forces billeted in homes, including their own homes

However, the records do include members of the armed services on leave and civilians on military bases.

The records list the following information: address, schedule number, sub number, surname, first name(s), OVSPi (for institutions only: Officer, Visitor, Servant, Patient, Inmate), sex, date of birth, marital status, occupation.

Records for individuals remain closed for 100 years from their date of birth (100-year rule). Records remain closed for people born less than 100 years ago until proof of death is verified.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

It should be noted that Brize Norton was covered as part of the Witney Rural District and the village name does not occur. The roads in Brize Norton seem to have been covered by two enumerators who overlapped in their coverage. Where possible duplicated records have been eliminated. It is obvious that many children are excluded because of the 100 rule mentioned above; hence the need to look at the Schools Admission Records to find others who may have served in WW2.

One enumerator used a "house numbering" system and the so-called house number is shown sometimes in square brackets after the road name.

The tables below are an extract of the Register of male inhabitants between the ages of 18 and 40 (3 sheets) followed by the female inhabitants in the same age group. The full Register can be found in Appendix 3.

Chapter 5 - Who needed to serve

Conscription: the Second World War

Limited conscription of men

During the spring of 1939 the deteriorating international situation forced the British government under Neville Chamberlain to consider preparations for a possible war against Nazi Germany.

Plans for limited conscription applying to single men aged between 20 and 22 were given parliamentary approval in the Military Training Act in May 1939. This required men to undertake six months' military training, and some 240,000 registered for service.

Full conscription of men

On the day Britain declared war on Germany, 3 September 1939, Parliament immediately passed a more wide-reaching measure.

The National Service (Armed Forces) Act imposed conscription on all males aged between 18 and 41 who had to register for service. Those medically unfit were exempted, as were others in key industries and jobs such as baking, farming, medicine, and engineering.

Conscientious objectors had to appear before a tribunal to argue their reasons for refusing to join-up. If their cases were not dismissed, they were granted one of several categories of exemption, and were given non-combatant jobs.

Conscription helped greatly to increase the number of men in active service during the first year of the war.

Conscription of women

In December 1941 Parliament passed a second National Service Act. It widened the scope of conscription still further by making all unmarried women and all childless widows between the ages of 20 and 30 liable to call-up.

Men were now required to do some form of National Service up to the age of 60, which included military service for those under 51. The main reason was that there were not enough men volunteering for police and civilian defence work, or women for the auxiliary units of the armed forces.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Britain did not completely demobilise in 1945, as conscription continued after the war. Those already in the armed forces were given a release class determined by length of service and age. In practice, releases began in June 1945, and the last of the wartime conscripts had been released by 1949. However, urgently needed men, particularly those in the building trades, were released in 1945, although some restrictions on their immediate employment were supposed to be enforced. All women were released at the end of the war.

It follows that many residents of Brize Norton, as can be seen from the 1939 Register (see Chapter 4) and the analysts in Chapter 1, were given "reserved" status and therefore did not have to serve. This is further discussed in Chapter 7.

Chapter 6 - Villagers that died

The Brize Norton village war memorial and the "plaque" in the porch of St Britius church shows that two people died in WW2. Military records including those of the Commonwealth War Graves Commission (CWGC) show their details and the location of their graves or memorial which are maintained by a grant from the Commission.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

David Edmund Price was born in 1928 and his parents, Mr & Mrs David Price are from Brize Norton, he and his wife Nancy Blanche also lived in Brize Norton. Sadly his daughter Barbara was born after his death.

David is buried in St Britius Churchyard extension and the panel above shows a picture of the grave stone. We presume that he died at home following his injuries.

We have found no record of anyone with that surname in the schools admissions register, nor in the 1928 list of residents nor in the 1939 Register.

Interestingly research on the Find a Grave website shows a record for David Edmund Price and also a photograph of a memorial plaque from Denbigh (see below).

Price (T/4191921) served in the 3rd Amb. Car. Coy., Royal Army Service Corps. Apparently there are 431 items tagged 3rd Amb. Car. Coy. In the library being constructed by The Wartime Memories Project (see poster below). I have not had an opportunity to review these items nor to research this company's operations before April 1941.

The Royal Army Service Corps (RASC) was the unit responsible for keeping the British Army supplied with all its provisions barring weaponry, military equipment and ammunition, which were under the remit of the Royal Army Ordnance Corps.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Army transport in the British Army's first century was provided by civil contractors and the first uniformed unit to attempt these duties was the Royal Waggoners. The attempt proved unsuccessful and the Waggoners was disbanded in 1795, less than a year after its formation.

With the French Revolutionary Wars continuing, a second attempt was not long in coming, arriving in 1799 with the Royal Waggon Corps, later renamed the Royal Waggon Train. This proved longer lived, being downsized after the end of the Napoleonic Wars but only fully disbanded in 1833.

It took the poor supply chains of the early stages of the Crimean War (1854-56), and the ensuing public outrage, for another army supply unit to be set up in 1855, this time known as the Land Transport Corps then the Military Train.

Army supply overall, however, was still in the hands of a unit of uniformed civilians known as the Commissariat, which was in 1869 merged with the Military Train's officers to form the Control Department. This made the Military Train a unit solely made up of other ranks commanded by officers from the Control Department and in 1870 the Military Train was renamed the Army Service Corps.

In 1875 the Control Department split into the Commissariat and Transport Department (CTD) and the Ordnance Store Department (OSD), with the latter forming the predecessor to the Royal Army Ordnance Corps. In 1880 the CTD was renamed the Commissariat and Transport Staff (CTS) and the other ranks' Army Service Corps renamed the Commissariat and Transport Corps (CTC).

In 1888, the CTS, the CTC and the War Department Fleet merged to form a second Army Service Corps, bringing officers and other ranks back together into one unit. That unit went on to absorb some of the Royal Engineers' transport duties and to be given the honour of the 'Royal' prefix in recognition of its major work in supplying troops during the First World War.

In 1965, the RASC was merged with the Transportation and Movement Control Service of the Royal Engineers to form the Royal Corps of

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Transport. In 1993 it became part of the Royal Logistic Corps.

John Edward Millis was born on 26th May 1920. He attended Brize Norton Primary School from the age of 7 (24 October 1927) until he was 11 (31 July 1931) when he left for Witney Grammar School. Mr & Mrs Millis are listed as resident in 1928 in one of the council houses, and they are also listed in the 1939 Register (see Appendix 3).

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

John was aged 24 when he died on 12 March 1945, he disappeared on a flight in Malaysia. He was a member of 177 Squadron, Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve and served as a flying officer.

Singapore Memorial stands in Kranji War Cemetery. It bears the names of more than 24,000 casualties of the land and air forces of the Commonwealth who died during the campaigns in Malaya and Indonesia or in subsequent captivity and have no known grave. The memorial also commemorates airmen who died during operations over the whole of southern and eastern Asia and the surrounding seas and oceans. John's name is in column 448.

After the surrender of Singapore, the Kranji area was used as a prisoner of war camp by the Japanese and this cemetery was begun by the Commonwealth prisoners at the camp. In 1946, it was decided that Kranji would be designated as Singapore's main war cemetery

Squadron 177 RAFVR

No.177 Squadron was a Beaufighter-equipped ground attack squadron that operated over Burma from early in 1943 until the end of the Second World War. The squadron was formed on 28 November 1942 while its personnel were still at sea coming to India from the UK. The squadron began to assemble at Amarda Road on 11 January 1943, and moved to Allahabad in mid-March. The aircrew were detached to No.27 Squadron while they waited for their aircraft, while the ground crew served with No.308 MU.

The first Beaufighters arrived in May 1943, but it took several months for the squadron to become operational, and its first ground attack mission didn't come until 10 September 1943. Attacks on enemy shipping, railways and ports were carried out until May 1944, when the squadron withdrew to India to prepare for the introduction of rockets. The squadron returned to the Burma front in August 1944, and resumed its ground attack duties. Actions included a large scale attack on a Japanese coastal convoy heading for Rangoon in September 1944.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

In May 1945 the squadron was used to support the amphibious landings at Rangoon, before being withdrawn from operations and disbanded on 5 July 1945.

Duty

1943-1945: Ground Attack, Burma Front

The RAFVR was formed in July 1936 to provide individuals to supplement the Auxiliary Air Force (AAF) which had been formed in 1925 by the local Territorial Associations. The AAF was organised on a Squadron basis, with local recruitment similar to the Territorial Army Regiments. Initially the RAFVR was composed of civilians recruited from the neighbourhoods of Reserve Flying Schools, which were run by civilian contractors who largely employed as instructors members of the Reserve of Air Force Officers (RAFO), who had previously completed a four year short service commission as pilots in the RAF. Navigation instructors were mainly former master mariners without any air experience. Recruits were confined to men of between 18 and 25 years of age who had been accepted for part time training as Pilots, Observers and Wireless Operators. The object was to provide a reserve of aircrew for use in the event of war. By September 1939, the RAFVR comprised 6,646 Pilots, 1,625 Observers and 1,946 Wireless Operators

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

When war broke out in 1939 the Air Ministry employed the RAFVR as the principal means for aircrew entry to serve with the RAF. A civilian volunteer on being accepted for aircrew training took an oath of allegiance ('attestation') and was then inducted into the RAFVR. Normally he returned to his civilian job for several months until he was called up for aircrew training. During this waiting period he could wear a silver RAFVR lapel badge to indicate his status.

By the end of 1941 more than half of Bomber Command aircrew were members of the RAFVR. Most of the pre-war pilot and observer NCO aircrew had been commissioned and the surviving regular officers and members of the RAFO filled the posts of flight and squadron commanders. Eventually of the "RAF" aircrew in the Command probably more than 95% were serving members of the RAFVR.

During 1943, the decision was taken by the Air Ministry to raise an order for members of the RAFVR to remove the brass and cloth 'VR's worn on the collars and shoulders of officers and other ranks (respectively), as these were viewed as being divisive. No similar order was raised for members of the Auxiliary Air Force, who retained their 'A's on uniforms at that time.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Chapter 7 - Others that served

Our analysis in previous chapters have found those who matched the age criteria for conscription (see Chapter 5) and whom lived in Brize Norton. Furthermore there were two groups, namely those working on the land and those working for the RAF who probably cannot be counted. There were obviously a few others who were in reserved occupations. On the other hand some people may have volunteered there services.

All this is in marked contrast to the situation in Word War One discussed in my earlier book. In WW1 many willingly volunteered to serve, probably caught by the mood in the country.

It is worth reviewing the list of males between the ages of 18 and 40 recorded in the 1938 Register. There was a total of 60 men and 48 women in that age group.

21 men in the 18 - 40 age group are involve in the agricultural sector. 8 names match with possible records in FindmyPast (Archer, Badger, Britnell, Fowler, Hunt, Lomas, Tidmarsh and Wilkins P)

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

It in this last category that we might find people who were called up to serve during the war.

Before looking for these people using online sources (find my past, forces war records and ancestry), we can certainly identify a few who served. Following requests in the Parish Newsletter (articles in the December 2019 and March 2020 issues) and on social media, several people have come forward to cite their ancestors.

Overleaf are listed the people who definitely served (the names provided by relatives still living) followed by a list of people with the surname and christian name or initials matching records from the school admission register, the 1928 list and the 1939 register

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Here are the names of those who definitely served.

Eric Faulkner

Eric appears in the Schools Admission Register. Born on 10th August 1914 he attended from the age of 4 (16.6.19) leaving for work at the age of 13. His father was William Faulkner. He is listed in the 1939 Register as a carpenter living in Burford Road.

Eric served in the Oxfordshire and Bucks Light Infantry (service number 5385758) as a private. He served in Northern Ireland helping to secure the border with Southern Ireland where there were known to be Nazi sympathisers.

[Name submitted by Pete Faulkner]

Frederick William Edgar Giles (1920 - 1980)

Frederick appears in the school admissions register as Fred. He was born on 28th April 1915 admitted to the school at the age of 4 and left for work at the age of 14. He does figure in the 1939 Register.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

There are four records in FindmyPast

1456068 Frederick William Giles
Attestation Year 1938

1594341 Frederick William Giles Attestation
Year 1940

1639065 Frederick William Giles Attestation
Year 1940

1643950 Giles Frederick Z/5 Res 19.6.46
DIS PARA 204/11 22.9.51

Forces War Records has possible matches:

Frederick William Giles Private 5127337 in the Royal Warwickshire Regiment however his parent is listed as Mary Parker of Warwick. So an unlikely candidate.

The is an F W Giles WO Class 2 83276 who served in REME who earned The efficiency medal (Territorial) in 1948

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Finally there is a Frederick Giles who was a driver T/168372 who was captured by the Japanese in February 1942 held in Malay POW camp and finally released in September 1945

Whether one of these records relates to "our" Frederick William remains to be shown!

However we do have a photograph of Fred taken in Okayama, Japan on 23rd February 1947 which might be a clue.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Lovell Frank Giles (known as Micky) (1921 - 1983)

Micky served in the RAF

Micky was known in Brize Norton for his mobile shop in the 70's and early 80's

Micky appears in the Brize Norton Schools Admission register. He was born on 18th September 1920 and joined the school at the age of 4 on 4th May 1925. His father was Fred Giles. He appears in the 1939 Register and is listed as a salesman living in Burford Road with five other members of the Giles family (Annie K, Anthony K, Betty E, Frederick C R, and Gordon A). Frederick C R was listed as a fish and fruit dealer.

The pictures overleaf show Micky in his RAF uniform.

I have found one record that might well fit:

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Gordon Aubrey Giles (1923 - 2010)

He served in the RAF as an LAC (1873077) RAFVR from 28 December 1942 to 28 January 1947. He was a wireless operator (morse code expert). He did his training in Blackpool, served in Madlem (Herefordshire) and was involved in the Normandy landings at Asnelles Beach. He then served in Lasham (Kent) (146 Wing 84 Group) after which he had at least one more posting abroad (France, Germany and Holland)

Gordon worked in the fruits, veg and newsagents and later in the sports and toy shops in Carterton.

Gordon born 29 November 1923 attended Brize Norton Primary School from the age of 4 (11.9.28) leaving at the age of 11 to go to Burford Grammar School. His father was Fred Giles. He appears in the 1939 Register and is listed as a salesman living in Burford Road with five other members of the Giles family (Annie K, Anthony M, Betty E, Frederick C R, and Lovell F). Frederick C R was listed as a fish and fruit dealer.

[Name of relative reported by Karen Gillett]

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Three photos of Gordon include one of him at work deciphering morse code.

I have some notes prepared for his eulogy talking about Gordon's later career and life.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

They also took in American lodgers with who they kept in touch.

ALVESCOT ROAD

In 1961 they bought an orchard on the site of the Giles shop now, against everyones advice, huge risk at the time. They built a shop which sold everything from fresh fish to firewood, green beans to gas and haberdashery, if there was a shilling to be made they sold it. "When the yanks were at Brize I once sold an American officer ham at midnight, if there is someone out there with money there should be someone to take it from them"

But was always dedicated to his customers and made friends with so many. Even stopping his Christmas dinner to deliver some gas when someone ran out cooking their Christmas dinner.

A real Ronny Barker open all hours sort of shop, open 7 days a week 6am to late. Still a life of very hard work. Semi retired in 1968 selling the shop to Mr Hussey.

SEMI RETIRED

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Semi retired and did a lot of volutary work such as helping at the youth club, hospital driving. Also traveled.

In 1970 it was time for a new venture and came out of retirement together with Lester and Linda bought a small newsagents in Burford Road carterton. Over 6 years they built this up to be the biggest news account in West Oxfordshire with 28 papergirls and boys. They sold to Martins in 1977 and bought back the original shop in Alvescot Road in 1976.They extended it and diversified into Toys Sports & cycles building it up over the years.

Gordon worked until unable to when he first had problems with his legs. But still called in to keep an eye on Lester, Linda & Kevin.

So many in the area remember popping in for sweets or buying their first bike from Giles.

Not a good advert for the bike department using an old shopper bike for years until it was stolen and then he bought an old one from the retiring vicar for 5 pounds.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

GENERAL

- Founder member of Carterton Chamber of trade On Brize Norton parish council, Carterton & Black bourton parish councils.
- Airplanes, found list of 28 he had been in including concord & acrobatics in a tiger moth
- Gardening
- Birds
- Crossword addict
- Fishing though little time
- Weather diaries going back decades until the last week. Until his health stopped you could hear him as “Gordon from carterton” on radio oxford with official weather reports.
- Jokes, until nearly the last day cracking jokes. A joke for every occasion must have known thousands.
- Languages, always tried to learn other languages, even learning some words in polish the last few weeks he was in Tall trees.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Gordon W Timms

Born September 1925 son of Alfred and Alice Timms and called up on his 18th birthday. He served in the Royal Engineers.

Gordon was born on 21st September 1925 and attended Brize Norton Primary School from the age of 3 (27.5.29) leaving at the age of 10. The admissions register says that he transferred to Bampton. His father Alfred W Timms is recorded in the 1939 Register as a bricklayer living in Forge Cottage with his wife Alice M and Gordon W plus two other school aged children.

There are 2 records in Forces War Records with that name:

G W Timms Seaman 19470A Royal Naval Reserve

G W Timms Private 5630561 Queens Royal Regiment

Neither seem a likely candidate

[Name of relative reported by Peta Donaghy who has some pictures]

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

There is a distinct paucity of records relating to military service in WW2 especially as compared with those for WW1. This is in part through the destruction of records through bombing and in part through a less rigorous approach to record keeping, of course, the numbers of those serving is huge. There are good records for those who served and died and also records of those injured.

I have ploughed through the names of those from Brize who might have served bearing in mind their age. The two sources for names are principally the 1939 Register and also names from the Schools Admissions Register (see previous chapters).

One record set is the Royal Artillery Attestations 1883 - 1942. The abbreviation "Attn Yr" stands for the Attestation Year. A second set is British Army Casualty Lists 1939 - 1945. For more information about these sets and others is given in Appendix 4

I have matched surnames, Christian names or initials and dates of birth where available to create a large number of possible matches. But how many of the following came from Brize Norton?

Where does one go from here? How to identify those from Brize Norton. Those who served in the Oxford & Bucks Light Infantry are strong candidates since this was the "local" regiment, but people could choose or be transferred to other regiments.

Contact with long standing families in the village may rule out a number of "candidates". We need such families to come forward.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

For the meantime this is as far as my research goes. Having worked through FindmyPast I am working my way through Forces War Records and Ancestry to see whether there is any other information.

Having done all this it would be fair to say that most if not all the people identified above by matching on their surname, initials and dates of birth (where available) were NOT from Brize Norton.

Chapter 8 - RAF Brize Norton

The RAF Base was built on Brize Norton land. Maps showing the parish boundary confirm this and the fields belonging to Moat Farm (now Church Farm) were swallowed up. By 1939 9 residents of Brize worked on the Base.

Following a bulleted history I include an extract of an authoritative account with great detail.

1935-1950

Summary of key points of interest:

- Building started in 1935, and No.2 Flying Training School arrives in Aug 1937 bringing Hawker Harts, Furies and Audaxes.
- 6 MU (41 Group) arrives and opens in Oct 1938, using D-type hangars now occupied by JATEU.
- March 1939 sees arrival of Harvards, by outbreak of war more than 25 received along with Oxfords and Blenheims.
- Following fall of France, HQ 15 SFTS lodges at Brize Norton during 1940 until Kidlington is available.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

- On 16 Aug 1940 the airfield is attacked by two Ju 88's, destroying many aircraft that were hangared for protection against the elements.
- During 1941 No.2 SFTS continues to train RAF pilots, whilst 6 MU handles Blenheims, Hampdens, Hurricanes, Spitfires and Fairey Battles.
- No.25 Blind Approach Training Flight forms in Nov 1941, remaining until Jul 1942 (as 1525 BAT Flt)
- The recently formed Heavy Glider Conversion Unit arrives at Brize Norton on 15 Jul 1942, and the station becomes the training centre for Army glider pilots.
- No.6 MU now erects and handles Horsa gliders. Whitley V bombers are used as glider tugs,. The unit is established to have 56 Horsas and 34 Whitleys.
- The first re-surfacing of the runways took place from 10 Feb to 20 Apr 1943, with flying training transferred to Grove.
- HGCU moves to North Luffenham in Mar 1944. Brize Norton is switched to 38 Gp control and Albermarles from 296 and 297 Sqns arrive.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

- Further training of Horsa pilots continue during 1944 in preparation for the assault on Normandy.
- On night of 5th/6th June 1944, 296/297 Sqns using 18 Albermarles towed 5th Parachute Brigade to landing Zone 'Z' near river Orne in Normandy.
- During 6th June, 40 Horsa gliders were towed in support of Operation Mallard carrying part of the 6th Airborne Division.
- At the end of the war more than 200 enemy aircraft are brought to UK for examination or use as transports. First to land at Brize Norton was a Ju88 on 10 May 45.
- None of the captured aircraft were conserved and all were eventually scrapped (rumour has it that a large pit near Base Hangar was used to dispose of the aircraft)
- December 1945 sees arrival of the School of Flight Efficiency and Transport Command Development Unit (TDCU). Principle task is the development of airborne delivery of mixed loads. TDCU uses Dakotas, Halifaxes, Hamilcars, Horsas, Liberators, Stirlings, Yorks, and even a few Hoverfly helicopters!

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

- 6MU continues to dispose of Spitfires, but in Jan 48 receives its first Meteor jet. TDCU leaves for Abingdon in Jun 49.
- 21 Gp Training Command takes control of the airfield on 4th July 1949, with Harvards from the Examining Wing of the Central Flying School arriving (later supplemented by Mosquitos)
- Soon after, Bomber Command takes control of the airfield on 1st June 1950 in preparation for use by American forces planning Strategic Air Command (SAC) bases in UK.

Extract from "The History of Royal Air Force Brize Norton by S. J. Bond"<sup>1</sup>

Royal Air Force Brize Norton came into being as a result of the RAF expansion programme of the early nineteen- thirties. The original site chosen for the aerodrome was some two or three miles further south, near the village of Clanfield, but it was soon discovered that this area was liable to flooding in the winter months, so the final choice fell on an area of farmland bounded by the villages of Brize Norton, Carterton and Black Bourton. In fact, Carterton was to have been the name of the airfield, but this was changed to avoid any possible confusion with Cardington in Bedfordshire.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Work began in 1935 along well established lines, with an almost circular grass landing area approximately 1,000 yards across, with a domestic and technical site in the north west corner, which included 5 'B' type hangars. Four further hangar areas were also provided, dispersed at various points around the perimeter and each consisting of two hangars.

The station was allocated to No 23(T) Group, and was officially opened on 13th August 1937. On 7th September, the first flying unit arrived, when No 2 Flying Training School (FTS) arrived from Digby, Lincs, bringing with it a collection of Hart Trainers, Audax and Fury aircraft. In fact, much of the building work was still unfinished at this time, with personnel being housed in temporary wooden huts, but this did not prevent 2 FTS from rapidly settling back down to its task of aircrew training, which included detachments to armament practice camps.

The first such detachment since the unit arrived at Brize Norton ended in disaster, when the entire formation of aircraft en route to Penrhos in Wales was lost after flying into bad weather. Thereafter, bombing practice was moved to Chesil Beach in Dorset, with the aircraft operating from nearby Warmwell. Here again, tragedy struck, with one aircraft coming down in the sea, the pilot being killed.

Accidents like this were an all too familiar part of life at a training establishment, and Brize Norton units certainly had their fair share right up to the end of the last war. During these early days at 2 FTS, at least two more Hart Trainers were lost during local flying, killing trainee pilots in both cases. However, there was certainly a lighter side to life, and the unit was not without its quota of characters, amongst whom were Flight Sergeant Lillywhite, an instructor, who used to drive himself around in a steam car, and a wing commander, who regularly came to work on a horse! In fact, this latter mode of transport was even used for towing the biplanes on occasions.

The next major development occurred on 10th October 1938, with the forming of No 6 Maintenance Unit, which occupied one hangar on the main site and all the previously mentioned dispersed sites. The main work of the unit, which was to remain largely unaltered for the next thirteen years, was the modification, storage and reissue of a wide variety of aircraft types.

6 MU was part of 41 Group, Maintenance Command, and the first aircraft to arrive for storage were two Saunders Roe Cloud amphibians, which were flown in from Ansty on 30th January 1939. By the end of the following month, more than 200 aircraft had been received, including Swordfish, Battle, Tiger Moth, Gladiator, etc. In fact, as time passed, the variety of aircraft handled increased to encompass almost every type in RAF service up to the end of the war, and this will be dealt with in more detail later on.

Another aircraft operator on the station at this time was the Station Flight, which was one of the very few to be issued with a de Havilland Don with the arrival of L2415 during 1938. This aircraft had originally been intended as a turreted general purpose trainer, before policy changes resulted in its relegation to the rather more mundane task of communications. However, its service life was short and all remaining examples had been grounded by 1940.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

On Saturday, 20th May 1939, 2 FTS was host to the public at what was to be the last Empire Air Day. This was a very different affair from the air displays of today; there was no static display of aircraft and the public were not even allowed onto the airfield, the flying display being centred on that part of the Carterton to Black Bourton road which used to run along the western end of the aerodrome.

Of special interest was the first appearance of 2 FTS's new Harvards and Oxfords, which were just beginning to replace the biplanes. All the flying was performed by local machines with the exception of fly-pasts by a Blenheim and a Battle and a display by a Gauntlet. The now familiar instructor/pupil act was performed in a Hart Trainer piloted by Squadron Leader Broughton and Pilot Officer P. Kewliar!

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

However, more changes for 2 FTS were on the horizon and the Harvards were destined to be short-lived on the unit. In September 1939, the title of the unit was changed to No 2 Service Flying Training School (SFTS), and gradually over the next few months all the Harvards and remaining biplanes were withdrawn as the Oxford took over as sole equipment.

The onset of war brought feverish activity with the camouflaging of the airfield being completed on the day of the declaration, and three days later, two squadrons of Blenheim IVs, Nos 101 and 110, arrived from their home bases on a "scatter" exercise which kept them at Brize for just a week.

Other than this and a marked increase in the number of pupils passing through 2 SFTS, the early days of the war affected the day to day life of the station very little, although 6 MU made its own direct contribution to the war effort in early 1940 by despatching Gladiators to Finland and Blenheims to Yugoslavia. On 11th June 1940, the headquarters and part of the flying section of 15 SFTS moved in from Middle Wallop with Harvards and Oxfords whilst waiting for its ultimate base at Kidlington to be made ready. The rest of the unit was split between South Cerney and Chipping Norton, and shortly afterwards it became solely Harvard equipped with a total of 28 aircraft at Brize Norton. On 28th July, a 2 SFTS Oxford with Sgt Adkinson and Sgt Ward aboard, was shot down by an unknown enemy aircraft during night flying over the satellite aerodrome at Akeman Street.

Early in August, a photographic reconnaissance flight over Brize was made by the Luftwaffe as a prelude to what was to be a disastrous air-raid which had a profound effect on operations. The raid took place on Friday, 16th August, when at around teatime, two Ju 88s appeared in the circuit. Previously published accounts of the raid have talked of the aircraft flying round the circuit with their wheels down in an attempt to fool the defences into mistaking them for friendly aircraft, but this is not born out by eye-witness accounts. What is certain is that the aircraft made a low-level attack and headed straight for the main hangar complex, dropping a total of 32 bombs including two 250 kilo bombs, one of which skidded off a hard- standing and came to rest perilously near an ammunition store, fortunately failing to explode. However, one hangar, packed full of Oxfords, received a direct hit, destroying all the aircraft inside. In all, 46 aircraft were destroyed, comprising 35 Oxfords and 11 Hurricanes lodging with 6 MU. In addition, a further 7 Oxfords were damaged; both Ju. 88s escaped unchallenged.

One result of this raid was that within a couple of days 2 SFTS had dispersed their aircraft to relief landing grounds at Southrop and Akeman Street, and although Brize Norton was to be bombed on three more occasions no further aircraft were lost as a result. Also, on the same day that 2 SFTS completed its dispersion, 15 SFTS moved out to Kidlington.

Throughout the remainder of 1940 and most of 1941, the work of 2 SFTS continued as before, though the nature of that work continued to take a heavy toll in terms of casualties from flying accidents. A visit to the churchyard at Black Bourton reveals just how many men lost their lives before they ever got to combat, with a large proportion of European and Commonwealth airmen amongst them.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

One potentially dangerous situation, which fortunately came to a safe conclusion, concerned a pilot on a solo handling flight in an Oxford. Having got airborne, he discovered that he had undercarriage trouble, so, being unable to communicate with the ground, he had the idea of throwing a note out of the aeroplane! This he did, with the result that the circuit was cleared for him to make a safe landing! Another lucky escape came the way of the crew of a Wellington which came down in the camp area, coming to rest on the Sergeants' Mess tennis court! No injuries were sustained.

Yet another Oxford unit to operate from Brize for a brief period of time was No 1525 Beam Approach Training Flight, which was present from 18th February until 16th July 1942. It was during this period, on the 14th March to be exact, that 2 SFTS finally became 2 (P)AFU, still with Oxfords, although it also had one or two Ansons on strength. Its job was now to provide short courses for Dominion personnel until, on 14th July 1942, it was disbanded, thus bringing to an end nearly five years of powered aircraft pilot training activities.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Although the major flying activities of Brize Norton were now to enter a very different, and certainly better known, phase, the work of 6 MU continued unabated with large numbers of aircraft passing through their hands. Amongst the many types being handled there were numbers of Douglas Bostons, many of which were destined to sit out on the airfield for several years, plus Hampdens, Beauforts, Defiants, Whirlwinds, Blenheims, Spitfires, Hurricanes, Oxfords, Tiger Moths, and even such rarities as an Avro Commodore (HH979) and Monospar ST.25 (X9334), impressed into military use at the outbreak of war, both of which spent short periods in storage before being re-issued for service.

However, the type which was probably present in the greatest numbers at that time was the Fairey Battle, brought here after its premature withdrawal from bombing duties, following its heavy mauling at the hands of the Luftwaffe in France. By now, the airfield had spread considerably into the surrounding countryside, and a large wood to the east of Brize Norton village was the home for around 60 Battles for two years or more. Finally, a sheet-metal worker on 6 MU, who still lives in the area today, was detailed to carry out modifications to all the aircraft, which consisted of cutting holes down through the floor and installing periscopes. He is not sure if this was ever put to use, but well remembers the aircraft being eventually overhauled and despatched overseas for further use, presumably in the training role in Canada.

The MU also suffered its share of accidents and incidents, the worst being to an Anson engaged in ferrying pilots around which crashed on approach to Brize, killing all 5 on board. Then, on 22nd December, 1940, a Hurricane crashed in a snow-storm, killing the pilot. However, all incidents did not have such tragic results, as the following, which is well remembered locally, will show.

A Spitfire was carrying out ground runs on the 28th February 1941 with a Czech or Polish pilot in the cockpit, when it inadvertently took-off with a 6 MU man still lying across the tail! A very cautious circuit was flown and a safe landing made, the tail-hanger being none the worse for his experience; in fact he still lives locally. Not so fortunate was the pilot of a Defiant whose aircraft hit No 4 hangar and was destroyed.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

The spread of the airfield brought about some interesting situations. Several small hangars suitable for two or three Spitfire-sized aircraft were erected in Carterton and other areas and disguised to look like farm buildings. It thus became a common site to see aircraft taxiing or being towed along the village roads and country lanes on their way to and from these dispersed sites. Today, just one of these small hangars remains, long since converted for use as a garage workshop. Despite its new frontage, however, a walk round the back of the building reveals its unmistakable outline and the original doors, now fixed permanently open.

Another feature which must have caused a few headaches was the Witney to Fairford railway line, which, following Brize Norton's first period of growth, found itself, for a few hundred yards, running inside the airfield boundary with a taxiway crossing it! This was resolved by the provision of one, later two, aircraft/train level crossings, and although the railway finally closed in the early nineteen-sixties the remains of the crossings can still be seen on the airfield today.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

On the 15th July 1942, the Heavy Glider Conversion Unit (HGCU) was formed at Brize Norton, a move which was to eventually result in the station assuming a front-line operational role.

With the coming into service during 1942 of the Airspeed Horsa glider, it became apparent that a new unit was needed in order to train army pilots to fly it. Previous glider experience had been largely confined to the much smaller General Aircraft Hotspur which had been relegated very early on to a training-only role due to its size.

Accordingly, on the 15th July 1942, the Heavy Glider Conversion Unit was formed at Brize Norton (which by this time had been provided with paved runways), with an initial complement of 56 Horsas, plus 34 Armstrong Whitworth Whitley V tugs, and two Oxfords. The nucleus of the headquarters staff came from 2(P)AFU personnel, and the pupil establishment was set at 62. Aircraft were delivered steadily through July, until, by the end of the month, a total of 307 day and 38 night flights had been made by the Horsas.

Flying at Brize gradually became very intense as the build-up at HGCU was added to ever increasing activity at 6 MU, which was assembling Horsas received direct from the factories, and had also started handling Venturas, Hotspurs, Hudsons, Liberators, Mitchells and Fortress IIs. In fact, the air space was now becoming so congested that 6 MU brought a satellite into use at Woburn Park, on the Duke of Bedford's estate, and the HGCU was forced to transfer some flying to Grove airfield between the 10th February and 20th April 1943.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Another problem was the proximity of the aerodrome at Broadwell, the circuit of which, overlapped that at Brize Norton. In order to help the situation, circuit lights were installed to assist the aircrew during night flying, the start of the system being marked by an illuminated sign reading "BZ Start Now". However, an incident occurred later in the war which serves to illustrate just how potentially dangerous the situation was.

A Dakota took-off from Broadwell one night with a Horsa in tow, and immediately got into some kind of trouble which necessitated a forced landing. The tug came down in open land at Rock Farm, Carterton, the impact setting the glider adrift, albeit with the entire length of towing-cable still attached. At very low altitude, the Horsa Flew across Carterton village, dragging its cable across roof-tops and bringing down telephone lines until it finally was able to set down in a field adjacent to Brize Norton aerodrome. To this day, a bungalow near the present airfield boundary shows signs of the roof repairs made necessary by the passage of the cable!

As if all this were not enough, it was thought to be desirable, in view of the Luftwaffe's previous unwelcome attentions, to set up a decoy airfield some three or four miles to the south east at Tadpole Bridge. This had no function during daylight hours, but each night, a team would set out from Brize and organise a system of false runway lights. It is not certain if the enemy ever paid any serious attention to it or not.

With all this intense activity, it will come as no surprise to learn that there were many accidents in those days with Whitleys coming off particularly badly. Perhaps the most tragic occurred in the evening of 9th November 1943, when two Whitleys on pre night-flying checks were indulging in a little highspirited low-level flying. According to eye-witness accounts, a third

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Whitley attempted to join in, and almost immediately, two of the aircraft (BD502 and BD512), collided and crashed, one coming down just east of Brize Norton village alongside the Witney road and the other in farmland about half a mile away; four men were killed. Today, the spot where the first aircraft came down is still marked by the partially demolished section of dry-stone wall and small parts of the second machine are still turned up by the plough on Brown's Farm.

Yet another hazard was a row of elm trees, which were exactly in line with the upwind end of the main runway close to Black Bourton village, and eventually they claimed a casualty, again at night, when a Whitley, just airborne with a Horsa in tow struck the tree tops and came down between two cottages. The Horsa managed to cast-off, but it too hit some more elms on the far side of the village and crashed. This accident is believed to have cost 6 lives.

Early in 1943, some of the first production Albemarles arrived to replace the Whitleys, but these P-serialled aircraft were not in fact used and remained only until April, when they were returned to MUs. However, the Albemarle was not to be absent from the scene for long, for it was decided in early 1944, that Brize would become the base for two squadrons of these aircraft in the operational paradrop and glider-tug role.

Thus, to make the necessary room, the HGCU was moved to North Luffenham during March, taking with it 36 Horsas, 40 Whitleys, 3 Oxfords and one Magister. On 8th March, Brize was transferred to No 38 Group and on the 13th of the same month, a headquarters party arrived from Stoney Cross in Hampshire, preceding Nos 296 and 297 Squadrons which came from Hum and Stoney Cross respectively. Almost immediately, 100 Horsas were added to the station's strength and training began in earnest to prepare them for DDay.

The first major exercise took place on 20th March, when 28 Albemarles, split 50/50 between the two squadrons, together with other 38 Group squadrons, dropped paratroops onto Brize Norton and released gliders. This exercise was code-named "Bizz One", and was followed by others entitled "Dreme", "Dingo", "Exeter" and "Confirmation", all along similar lines, and all preparing for the allotted tasks which were soon to follow on the 6th June.

The two Albemarle squadrons commenced Brize's D-Day activities by dropping the main body of the 5th Parachute Brigade on landing zone "N" at 0320 hours, from 9 aircraft of each unit. The landing zone was 6 miles from the coast and 61 miles north east of Caen, on the banks of the river Orne. The first job of the troops was to prepare the landing zone for the Horsas which followed in the second wave behind 8 tugs from 296 Squadron and nine from 297. In addition to these, further Horsas landed from behind tugs airborne from Harwell and Tarrant Rushton, with a final total of 68 gliders being put down. The main task of the men aboard these gliders was to capture two bridges over the River Orne and the Caen canal and this was successfully accomplished.

The final phase of this operation was the capture of the coastal battery at Merville, and for this, three further Horsas were towed by 297 Squadron following 2.5 hours behind a heavy bombardment by 100 Lancasters, and a landing of Horsas from other 38 Group stations. The Brize aircraft were landed directly onto the battery to effect its final capture, although in the event, only two aircraft made it, the tow-rope of the third aircraft broke and it was forced to set down at Odiham on the outward journey.

Finally, on the evening of D-Day, in Operation Mallard, the two squadrons each used 20 Albemarles to tow Horsas containing men of the 6th Airborne Division to another landing zone.

Operation Comet, which was planned for the 8th September, involved 97 Horsas being flown to Manston' but in the event, the operation was cancelled. However, they returned to Manston on the 15th for operation Market, joining other units, including Hadrian gliders. On the 17th, a total of 46 Horsas and 10 Hadrians were towed-off and joined the many other units en route to Arnhem. In one of the gliders was Brize Norton's Station Commander, Group Captain T M Abraham, DFC, who spent some time at the landing zone. On the second day of the operation, a further 43 gliders were taken over, but thereafter, Brize aircraft took no further part.

In addition to all the towing work, which also included positioning gliders for other tug squadrons, 296 and 297 were involved in leaflet raids on the Channel Islands, code-named "Nest Egg", and also dropped personnel and supplies to the resistance movement in Europe.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

In all these operations, only one fatal accident at Brize is recorded when an Albemarle, returning from an operational sortie, crashed at Black Bourton, killing 7 crew. On 30th September, 296 and 297 moved to Earls Colne in Essex in two stages taking 47 Horsas each time.

On October 15th the HGCU returned home from North Luffenham, with the flying wing shortly preceding the servicing wing, and by the 20th, it had become No 21 HGCU, reflecting the still increasing pace of glider operations. No 22 HGCU was set up at the same time at nearby Keevil and Fairford, with No 23 HGCU at Peplow and Seighford.

The establishment of 21 HGCU at this time was intended to be 35 Albemarles, 34 Horsas and 6 Oxfords, but in fact, the Whitley was destined to soldier on, the last examples not leaving until January 1945. In addition, Hadrian gliders began arriving during November 1944 to supplement the Horsas.

During all these changes on the operational side of the station, the MU had steadily continued and indeed diversified its work still further. On 8th February 1943, it had taken over the satellite at Barton Abbey from 39 MU and then transferred that at Woburn Park to 8 MU. By early 1944, the predominant aircraft being handled was the Spitfire, with growing numbers of Stirling III and IV. At the end of June there were 301 aircraft in stock, and in November there was another about-tam when the Woburn Park strip was taken over again, and gradually, 175 Stirlings accumulated there. One Stirling came to grief at Brize on March 26th 1944, causing injury to three of the crew, one of whom later died.

Another fatal accident involving the MU occurred in March 1945, when one of the test pilots, Sqn Ldr Anderson was killed in a crash near the village of Shilton; the aircraft has been variously reported as a Spitfire or Hurricane. 21 HGCU also continued to suffer accidents and on November 17th 1944, yet again at night, Whitley LA873 flew into the ground at Ducklington, with Horsa LG749 still attached, killing both crews.

As the re-equipment with Albemarles built up, the training of RAF glider pilots ceased altogether, and thereafter, only army pupils passed through the unit.

On the 1st June 1945, the HGCU became the parent unit for No 1 Glider Training School at Croughton, Northants, which had a complement of Masters, Tiger Moths and Hotspurs. With the end of the war came a reduction in the intensity of training, but experiments were tried with alternative tug aircraft, both Stirlings and Halifaxes being tried, although the Albemarle continued in use. During October, some Horsas and Hadrians were towed over to nearby Hullavington for "TAF" Day; unfortunately, Horsa RX618 crashed into a hangar after release and was written off.

Brize Norton's long association with glider training finally came to an end on the 31st December 1945, when 21 HGCU moved to Elsham Wolds in Lincolnshire, taking Horsas, Hadrians, Albemarles and Halifaxes with it. Many Horsas, however, were destined not to make the journey, for with the cessation of hostilities, the need for large numbers of the gliders abruptly ended leaving a great number awaiting assembly at 6 MU. The solution found was to offer the fuselages for sale locally; the original price was £25, but as time went by this gradually came down in stages to 25/- and then the final two dozen aircraft were offered free to anyone who could take them away!

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

The redundant machines found a ready market as garden sheds, and thirtythree years later, a few were still to be found in back gardens and allotments. In fact, during 1978, two fuselage sections were rescued for restoration by the Mosquito Aircraft Museum at London Colney, Herts, with another going to the care of the Brize Norton Aviation Society. Amongst many other unwanted items which found there way onto the open market, were Spitfire mainwheels which went for 10 shillings a pair!

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of 6 MU's work at this time however, was the storage of captured German aircraft after their evaluation at Farnborough, or use as "hacks" by the occupying forces. The first to arrive was a Junkers Ju. 188 on the 10th May, and between then and 1947, when the last new arrivals were received, around 70 aircraft were handled, the most numerous being the Junkers Ju. 52/3M and the Messerschmitt Me. 163B, with about 20 examples of each.

In addition to storage, the German aircraft were also sent out to various exhibitions, including Hyde Park in September 1945 (Me 163, He 162, Me 108, Me 110, Fw 190, Ju 88 and Fi 156) and Brize Norton's own Battle "At Home" Day on the same day (15th September) when the following were displayed: Ju 52/3M, Ar 234B, Fw 190, Fw 189, Ju 188, Ju 88, Me 262, He 162, He 219, Si 204. In addition, another He 162 plus an Me 163 were despatched to Little Rissington on loan for their open day.

Although some aircraft were passed to 47 MU at Sealand, 76 MU at Wroughton and various other RAF stations in ones and twos, the vast majority lingered on at Brize, with the larger aircraft open to the elements until the bad winter of 1946/47 took its toll. Many of the aircraft were overturned in the gales, and others suffered from falling trees, and shortly after this, the wholesale scrapping began. The aircraft were taken to the south side of the airfield where 6 MU were already scrapping Spitfires, Spitefuls and Liberators. After all useful pieces and large metal areas had been removed, the mortal remains were buried in twenty feet deep holes where they remain to this day. This burial process was quite common with another pit being sited out beyond Brize Norton village in farmland, to accommodate the remains of aircraft that had been stored in dispersed sites.

The last recorded "movement" of a German aircraft took place on the 16th of December 1948, when Siebel Si 204D AM 46 was sold to the Eyre Smelting Co. Most of the German aircraft on display in Britain today passed at some stage through 6 MU, but it is sad to record that many now extinct aircraft were scrapped in the great clear-out, including such types as Ju 290, He 219, Fw 189, Do 217.

The MU's main task now was to reduce to scrap a wide variety of aircraft; the Spitefuls already mentioned, together with its naval counterpart, the Seafang, were received straight from the production line, with many never having been flown. In January 1946, -it took over the satellite at Chipping Warden in Northants for the storage of complete Horsas, and then in May 1947, Woburn Park was closed after the last Stirlings there had been scrapped.

After this, 6 MU became a mere shadow of its former self, although it entered the jet age in January 1948 when the first two Meteors arrived, the main variants handled being the F 4 and T 7. However, the Spitfire continued to be the main type to be found here right up to the time the MU finally disbanded on the 31 st December 1951, when all the Spitfires, plus 3 Meteors and 7 Proctors were despatched to other MUs.

TCDU also carried out trials with aircraft from other air forces and during 1947, Fairchild C-82s spent some time at Brize carrying out dropping trials on the airfield in order to give the USAAF benefit of TCDU's experience. Later still, the USAAF returned again, this time with C-119s and towing trials with Horsas were carried out.

On the 5th September 1946, 297 Squadron returned to Brize from Tarrant Rushton, although it was now equipped with the Halifax A IX. Its six aircraft stayed for just under a year before moving to Fairford in August 1947.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Shortly after this, on the 23rd September, Brize Norton staged "Exercise Longstop II", which was a demonstration of operating a mobile staging post for forward air supply. For the purpose of the exercise, Brize was considered to be a captured airfield whose runways were still intact.

A total of twenty Yorks were flown in, consisting of five from No 4 Group and fifteen from No 47 Group. Before 1,500 invited spectators, the aircraft were taxied in front of the tented staging post area for unloading. Unfortunately, the timing went slightly adrift, with some aircraft sitting on the taxiway with engines running for some considerable time, waiting for the aircraft ahead to unload and clear. However, the usefulness of the York at that time was well illustrated, with one aircraft unloading a jeep, anti-tank gun and trailer in less than five minutes.

The final part of the exercise consisted of a rapid-landing demonstration by TCDU Dakotas, with five aircraft being brought in at two minute intervals. Another advance in long-range transport technology had already been demonstrated at Brize the previous day, when a USAAF C-54 (42-72461) Skymaster landed after flying from the United States without any of the nine crew having touched the controls. The aircraft used a system of radio beams and "corridor control" and had a mixed crew of USAAF and RAF personnel and civilians. It belonged to the All Weather Flying Centre.

On June 30th 1949, the TCDU moved to Abingdon, Berks, and on the 4th July, Brize Norton was again transferred, this time to No 21 Group, Flying Training Command, thus echoing its earliest days; a feeling which was reinforced by the arrival the next day of 25 Harvards from the Examining Wing of the Central Flying School, Little Rissington. They stayed until the 16th March 1950, during which time Fairford was used as a relief landing ground.

Prior to this, on the 15th August 1949, yet another unit had arrived. This time it was No 204 Advanced Flying School from Driffield, Yorkshire, with Mosquito T 3 and FB 6 aircraft. The job of this unit was to convert aircrew onto type, and yet again, accidents were fairly frequent, with one Mosquito coming down alongside the Brize Norton to Bampton road, and another crashing in marshy ground opposite the "Mason's Arms" public house in Brize village. This accident, on the 5th December 1949, killed one of the crew.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

On 1st March 1950, the station was moved to 23 Group, Flying Training Command and then on the 9th June, the Mosquitoes left for Swinderby, Lincs. Finally, on the 1st of June, just before 204 AF S's departure, the station was put in the charge of Bomber Command as a prelude to its handing over to the United States Air Force.

Chapter 9 - The Mary Ellis story

Mary Wilkins went to Brize Norton Primary School from the age of 12 joining on 28 October 1929. She and her siblings (Dora and Herbert) joined at the same time. Dora was 7 years younger and Herbert 1 year older. Dora transferred to Burford Grammar school at the age of 10 in 1935 having won a scholarship. Their father Charles Wilkins (dob 5.1.1885) farmed at Manor Farm and Dora remembers looking out of the windows from the Manor House. The 1939 Register lists 3 members of the Wilkins family at

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Manor Farm and 3 members including their father living in the Homestead (see their names in Appendix 3). Dora was married to Peter Brown a former churchwarden of St Britius church and an egg farmer in Brize Norton. Dora moved to live with Mary in the Isle of White.

Her story is well documented though the fact that she resided in Brize Norton in her teens is not!

Early life

Mary Wilkins was born on 2 February 1917, in Leafield, Oxfordshire, to a farming family. She developed a fascination with aviation from a young age, as her family home was located near Royal Air Force bases at Bicester Airfield and Port Meadow. At the age of 11 her father paid for her to have a joy ride in a biplane at a flying circus, and she decided she wanted to learn to fly. When she was 16 she started having lessons at a flying club in Witney, successfully gained a private pilot's licence and flew for pleasure until the start of the Second World War in 1939, when all civilian flying was banned.

Second World War

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

In October 1941, she joined the Air Transport Auxiliary, and was posted to a pool of women flyers based in Hamble in Hampshire. Over the course of the war she flew over 1,000 planes of 76 different types, including Harvards, Hurricanes, Spitfires and Wellington bombers. Some of her flights were to relocate planes from Royal Air Force airfields to the frontline, and others were to ferry new planes from factories to airfields.

Post Second World War

After the war the Air Transport Auxiliary was disbanded. However, Ellis was seconded to the Royal Air Force and continued to ferry aircraft.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

She was one of the first women to fly the Gloucester Meteor, Britain's first jet fighter. She later moved to the Isle of Wight.

In 1950, she became the manager of Sandown Airport on the Isle of Wight, and Europe's first female air commandant. Ellis managed Sandown for twenty years, during which time she also founded the Isle of Wight Aero Club. A former ATA colleague, Vera Strode, was hired by Ellis as the chief flying instructor.

In 2016, Ellis published her autobiography: A Spitfire Girl: One of the World's Greatest Female ATA Ferry Pilots Tells Her Story.

Recognition

In 2017 a plaque was unveiled at RAF Brize Norton in recognition of Ellis' and fellow pilot, Molly Rose's, "contribution to ATA".

In 2018, Ellis was granted the Freedom of the Isle of Wight.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Ellis was featured on the BBC in 2018 highlighting, among other achievements, solo flights where other teams consisted of eight crew.

Personal life

She married fellow pilot Don Ellis in 1961, and they had a house next to the runway at Sandown. Don Ellis died in 2009.

Ellis died at her home in Sandown, Isle of Wight, on 24 July 2018 at the age of 101.

Works

A Spitfire Girl: One of the World's Greatest Female ATA Ferry Pilots Tells Her Story, Melody Foreman, Barnsley, S. Yorkshire Frontline Books 2016. ISBN 9781473895362, OCLC. 975366210

Mary Ellis blazed a trail for female aviators, as one of the first women to fly Spitfires, heavy bombers and jet aircraft.

She was a member of the Air Transport Auxiliary (ATA), which employed civilians to deliver planes from factories to airfields during the Second World War.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

However, her contribution to the war effort was not always appreciated.

At one RAF base, the ground crew refused to believe she was the pilot of the Wellington bomber she had just landed.

"They actually went inside the aeroplane and searched it," she recalled.

"Everybody was flabbergasted that a little girl like me could fly these big aeroplanes all by oneself."

"I was interested in aeroplanes from almost the year dot," she said.

The Aeroplane magazine fumed in a 1940 editorial: "Women anxious to serve their country should take on work more befitting their sex instead of encroaching on a man's occupation."

Another editor wrote: "The menace is the woman who thinks that she ought to be flying in a high-speed bomber when she really has not the intelligence to scrub the floor of a hospital properly."

"Girls flying aeroplanes was almost a sin at that time," Mary Ellis later recalled.

Against this background and despite her mother's misgivings, she applied to the ATA after hearing an advertisement on BBC radio and was "readily accepted" in 1941.

She was soon flying "fast and furious aeroplanes and bombers all over the country", as aircraft production and casualties rose.

The work was "exhilarating and sometimes very dangerous", she recalled. Pilots often flew unfamiliar aircraft, guided by the "Ferry Pilots notes", which gave landing instructions.

"We'd say to each other, 'Oh look what I've got, look what I've got'. And that was terribly exciting. Sometimes frightening as well because the aeroplanes were all different. You'd get out of a Tiger Moth into a Wellington bomber and then into a Spitfire."

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Based at an all-women's ATA pool in Hamble, Hampshire, she recalled that she flew "about 1,000" aircraft during the war including 76 different types.

Mary Ellis came close to death on several occasions.

She was shot at over Bournemouth, possibly by friendly fire, and had a near-miss as she landed in fog at the same time as another Spitfire coming in the opposite direction.

She also survived a crash-landing when the undercarriage on her Spitfire jammed, causing the engine to overheat.

"I just knew that I had to do something before the engine blew up. One didn't get excited or anything else. It's just a part of the job of coping with an aeroplane."

Nearly one in 10 of the ATA's 168 female members were killed during the war, including aviation pioneer Amy Johnson.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Mary's friend Dora Lang died in a crash in 1944. "I missed her terribly", she recalled. "And for two days I was not allowed to fly - I didn't want to. But after that one realised, well, there is a war on, we must get on with our jobs. And we did."

The ATA's founder, Pauline Gower, had joked the organisation's acronym could stand for "Always Terrified Airwomen".

But Mary said the women "proved that we could handle aeroplanes and do the job that we were supposed to do."

They were also able to enjoy an active social life.

"We had lots of boyfriends. Because at that time we were called the 'glamour girls' - I don't know why. But there were always plenty of escorts around."

When the ATA was disbanded in 1945, Mary Wilkins was seconded to the RAF, where she became one of the first women to fly Britain's first jet fighter, the Gloster Meteor.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

She went on to become manager of Sandown Airport on the Isle of Wight in the 1950s and 1960s, hiring a former ATA colleague, Vera Strode, as chief flying instructor.

A correspondent for Flight Magazine, visiting the airport in 1951, described it as a "woman pilots' Utopia", whose "extra quota of feminine charm... has had no disturbing effect on the enthusiasm of club members."

Away from the airport, she indulged a love of fast cars, entering and winning sports car rallies, and ran a fashion boutique.

"She is the most glamorous person I know," her niece Rosemarie Martin recalled before Mary's death.

"She enjoys fashion and always wears nail polish. Very strong on etiquette - the right china, the right cutlery, your manners, she could write a book on that."

Mary married Don Ellis, a fellow pilot, in 1961, and began to host "legendary parties", Ms Martin said.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

She continued to live in the marital home beside the runway at Sandown after his death in 2009.

At the age of 101, she was still driving daily to local shops.

In November 2016, she and fellow ATA pilot Joy Lofthouse were honoured in front of members of the Royal Family at the annual Festival of Remembrance at the Royal Albert Hall in London.

"Being an ATA pilot was fantastic," Mary Ellis recalled.

"Up in the air on your own. And you can do whatever you like. I flew 400 Spitfires. And occasionally I would take one up and go and play with the clouds.

"I would like to do it all over again. There was a war on but otherwise it was absolutely wonderful."

As I write, the Brize Norton Parish Council is submitting an application for a Blue Plaque in honour of Mary Ellis. The plaque would be fixed to the Manor House wall for all to see. I am grateful to Les Gamble for sharing a copy of the application which includes a write up of Mary Ellis.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

75th Anniversary of the end of WW2

As I write the planned celebrations in Brize Norton were abruptly due to the lockdown following the coronavirus pandemic. Planned celebrations for the 75th Anniversary of VE/VJ day included a street party and a concert in St Beritius Church. However many houses put flags and bunting up, there was a display at the war memorial and the church bells were rung at 11 am, 3 pm and 9 pm.

Looking for more information

I hope that others may come forward with further information. Indeed a process of elimination would help by identifying from living relatives those from Brize who definitely did not serve in WW2.

I am also acutely aware that I have failed to establish, with the notable exception of Mary Ellis (nee Wilkins) any women that served.

Perhaps some recollections from the generation who had their early years through the war or were born during the war years could be forthcoming. As a member of that generation, though not from Brize Norton, I have recollections of parachute mines, anti aircraft guns, being evacuated to Devon etc. Local residents must have similar experiences.

There must be so much more to find out about Brize Norton in WW2!

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Appendix 2 - 1928 List of Residents

The list of 1928 residents of Brize Norton is given below. This list was amongst memorabilia held by Mrs Joy Douglas (formerly Mrs Joy Bull) nee Pinniger. The origin is not entirely clear but there were hand annotations with the names of residents and some personalised annotations and remarks about houses that had been demolished.

Appendix 3 - The 1939 Register

Here is the full 1939 Register. As explained there is some duplication because the village was "worked" by more than one enumerator. Because of the 100 year rule some names were excluded - labelled as "closed" in the online register. See Chapter 4 for more information and analysis.

Appendix 4 - Records sets

Royal Artillery Attestations 1883-1942

The records include the men who fought in both World War 1 and World War 2.

The information contained in this collection is taken from enlistment books which were maintained by British Army regiments during the period under consideration. Each record includes an image of the enlistment book and a transcription. The information in each can vary.

Army Book 358 was intended to be a permanent record of a man's enlistment and was, in due course, to be "deposited in the office of the Master of the Rolls" for reference purposes.

The instruction continued that the book "will be kept up to date and compiled with care and accuracy. When a man is struck off the strength, the necessary entry will be made in the column "Transfer". If for any reason he is allotted a new Regimental number, cross references will be made." Four lines were allotted for each man's entry and the entries recorded in numerical order.

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

The earlier entries in Army Book 358, up until 1929 at least, can give an extraordinary amount of detail. Information is recorded under the following headings:

Regimental number

Whether the enlistment was for the regular army (R), militia (M), special reserve (SR) or Territorial Force (T)

Full name

Date of attestation

Age on attestation

Place of attestation

Whether transferred to or from another corps and in such cases, the date of transfer

Trade on enlistment

Parish, town and county of birth

Next of kin (parents' details to be written in pencil, wife's details to be written in ink)

Place and date of marriage

Place and date of birth of each child

Campaigns, wounds, medals or rewards of any kind

Date, place and cause of discharge

Rank and character on discharge

Rate of pension awarded

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

Address on discharge
Remarks

The last, "Remarks" column is important here as it often gives details of prior service, often including a regimental number and date of enlistment which would enable further research to be undertaken in other record series published elsewhere on findmypast.

Whilst the attestations in these large enrolment books date from the 1900s, the earliest attestation noted where former service is indicated, dates back to 1883. Searching these records could therefore help you uncover not just First World War soldiers, but men who served in the Boer War (1899-1902) and other late nineteenth century campaigns.

The smaller attestation books which were in general use from 1929 give a lot less information, namely:

Army number

Full name/s

Details of transfer to other Corps or cause of becoming non-effective (including date)

BRIZE NORTON AND WORLD WAR TWO

A typical entry in this final column might read 19.02.35 Para 370 (xvi) KR which means that the man was discharged on 19th February 1935 under Paragraph 370 (xvi) of King's Regulations. To ascertain exactly what that particular paragraph means it is necessary to check the relevant published King's regulations before the date mentioned. King's Regulations were published in 1914, 1923 and 1940 and copies can be obtained – and in some instances viewed for free – online.

The original enlistment books that from this collection are owned by The Royal Artillery Historical Trust and housed at The Royal Artillery Museum in Woolwich.

When someone enlisted with The Royal Regiment of Artillery the first thing they did was fill out an “attestation record”. This became the basis of his record of service.

There are approximately one million soldiers on the list. But please note that these records do not catalogue ALL soldiers enlisted. The earlier records, before 1930, are very detailed and a great source of detail. After 1930, the records have less detail, but can still give you dates of attestation and discharge.

The records include those who fought in World War One and World War Two, but also those who fought in the Crimean War and the Boer Wars.

The originally Attestation Ledgers are held at the Royal Artillery Museum in London's Woolwich.

Below is an example of an attestation record. Most have very little detail, far less than earlier records:

The image can provide you with additional information such as a date of death or a notation regarding an individual's prior listing (i.e. if the person was listed previously as missing or a prisoner of war).

You may have annotations written next to your ancestor's name. The letter 'L' or 'CL' and a number or a number on its own refers to another casualty list. This is likely to be when someone who was missing has now been reported as a prisoner or someone who was wounded reported now as having died. The first number in these references will relate to the Casualty List number, found at the start of each daily casualty list. If there is a second number to this code (example: CL 1015/12), this will be the specific page that the previous or subsequent entry can be found. Use the previous/next buttons to move through the documents to view other list numbers.

The British Army casualty lists 1939-1945 include over a million entries from the volumes which were updated by the War Office on a regular basis from 1939 to 1947. The lists document the names of officers, nurses, and other ranks who were reported as killed in action, dead as a result of illness or accident, missing, or taken as a prisoner of war. Later records show the names of those who were previously listed as a prisoner of war or missing but had died or those who were listed as a prisoner of war and were now free. Individuals can appear in the lists more than once if their status was reported to have changed. For example, E C Young was first reported missing, then reported missing and presumed a prisoner of war, and finally reported as a prisoner of war. Each entry recorded the person's name, rank, service number, regiment, status, and previous theatre of war.

In association with The National Archives, Findmypast has digitised and transcribed this collection. For each record, you can view an image of the original document and a transcription of the information found in the document. Within the collection, there are a small number of records which only provide a transcript. These records were contributed by the Naval and Military Press and Brian Sims. You will also find First World War records from the International Committee of the Red Cross. Each record will provide a copyright statement or archive field which denotes its origin.

The amount of information in each record can vary depending on the type of document and the amount of detail recorded at the time of the event. You may or may not find some of the following information:

The nature of these records varies greatly. In some, you will find lists of the names of prisoners; in others you will find detailed records of daily life of the prisoners including physical descriptions of your ancestors.

By viewing the original document you can reveal even more about your ancestor. The image will also help you to put the information into a wider context and understand why your ancestor's name was recorded. Because of the diversity of the documents, you may find more than one record for an ancestor.
